Welcome

Dear Colleagues, dear Business Partners,

The Code of Ethics of ALTEO Group was drafted with the aim to create a useful guide that would offer help and protection to our employees, and provide information to our partners on the standards of conduct observed and required by our Group. The document gives an overview of our key ethical principles, the features of our etiquette and corporate culture, the options for advocacy, and priorities and specific issues of liability.

The standards established in the Code of Ethics of the ALTEO Group impose stricter requirements on Group employees than those stipulated by laws currently in effect. This is because we believe that, in certain cases, even well-meaning actions that otherwise do not violate any law may have adverse consequences for the Company and our employees. It is our common responsibility and interest to preserve our values and the foundations of our ethical operations.

In addition to fundamental ethical principles, such as the protection of and respect for universal human rights, honesty, trust, humanity, tolerance and responsibility, our culture is based on shared corporate values, such as transparency, sustainability, fair market conduct, commitment, expertise and pursuit of excellence, efficiency, respect for others and sincerity.

I believe that, by operating in accordance with the above values and the guidelines set out in the Code of Ethics, the ALTEO Group and the community of its employees will be able to work successfully in the future and with above-average productivity while, at the same time, providing security for all affected parties.

Budapest, June 16, 2025

Sincerely yours,

Attila Chikán, Jr. Chief Executive Officer ALTEO Group

1. Introduction

1.1 The Purpose of Our Code of Ethics

The ALTEO Group always strives to be better. As a thoughtful and forward-looking organization, we believe that long-term success depends on staying true to our values and strengthening the credibility and trust we've built with our partners. We are committed to integrity and responsible operation, as well as full compliance with our strict ethical requirements. Our Code of Ethics is intended to reinforce this commitment to our employees and business partners.

We would like to draw the attention of our employees and business partners to certain situations and activities that should be followed or avoided, as they may involve violations of the applicable laws or internal regulations and could lead to serious consequences.

We provide help in certain ethical issues that may be important to the community, thereby reducing the occurrence of violations and mitigating their consequences.

We want to provide guidelines for our employees when they are faced with ambiguous situations falling under the "appropriate but unethical" category.

By offering suggestions and recommendations as to how to act in partnerships and customer relationships, the quality and consistency of which is very important for our Group, we also facilitate competitive advantage and improve our reputation.

The Code of Ethics, the internal rules and standards of the ALTEO Group have been developed and are operated in accordance with the existing compliance requirements, which contribute to effective cooperation with business partners and authorities.

1.2 The Scope of the Code of Ethics

The Code of Ethics must be observed by all managers and employees of the ALTEO Group (ALTEO Nyrt. and companies directly or indirectly controlled by it) and all persons acting on behalf of the ALTEO Group. They are expected to refrain from any conduct or activity that is illegal or unethical, or that may otherwise be questionable in terms of the integrity and honesty of our Group or may cause harm to us.

All managers and employees are personally responsible for ensuring that they

- become acquainted with the principles and rules set forth in the Code of Ethics and other related internal regulations;
- always act in accordance with the guidelines of the Code of Ethics and the existing legal regulations;
- report all unethical conducts in the manner specified in the rules of procedure;
- raise their questions about the guidelines or the implementation of the Code of Ethics where they think this is necessary.

Furthermore, our managers are responsible for creating and maintaining the culture of ethical operations, and are expected

- to exhibit exemplary ethical conduct, and to ensure that employees under their management comply with the ethical principles,
- to provide support to employees who ask questions about the content of the Code and raise issues with good intentions,
- to ensure that employees who raise an issue are not discriminated against,
- to report issues or situations requiring an ethics review beyond their level of responsibility immediately to the Director of Ethics, Compliance and Control in accordance with the rules of procedure.

Our suppliers, subcontractors, contracted, sponsored and supported partners and other stakeholders are also expected to observe and comply with the Code of Ethics.

1.3 Implementation of the Code of Ethics

Our Company ensures that all managers and employees become acquainted with the content of the Code of Ethics via e-learning and personal internal training, within the framework of which they can also find answers to any questions they raise. The trainings are held every 2 years or, for new entrants, 2 weeks within their first day at work. At the end of the training, participants are tested on the knowledge they have acquired, and are required to sign a written statement that they have understood and will comply with the requirements of the Code of Ethics.

All contracted business partners are expected to act in accordance with the principles described in our Code of Ethics, which they have to confirm in writing when they sign the contract with us. Our employees who work with our partners shall also ensure that cooperation is always in accordance with the Code.

The latest version of our Code of Ethics is always available on our internal communication interface (intranet) and on our website.

Everyday guide

Our Code of Ethics describes the key principles and ethical guidelines; however, during everyday operations ambiguous or complex issues that may require some guidance, may arise. In such situations, employees must always ask the relevant questions before they act.

Ethical self-check questions that may help you assess certain situations:

- 1. Is it in accordance with the values of the ALTEO Group?
- 2. Does it follow the guidelines of the Code of Ethics?
- 3. Is it legal?
- 4. Do I think the decision is correct, and am I able to justify it before my colleagues and family?
- 5. Is it beneficial for the ALTEO Group in the long run as well?
- 6. Would the publication of this act in the press put our Company in a good light?

If the answer to any of the above questions is "no" or unclear, our managers and the compliance manager will be happy to provide advice and guidance.

Our Code of Ethics reviewed by the Director of Ethics, Compliance and Control annually, or as necessary based on our business operations. They put forward their proposals to the Compliance Committee and the CEO for approval.

Our ethics management system is reviewed by an independent third party every three years.

1.4. Protection of Whistleblowers

We are committed to a corporate culture where employees are not afraid to report their concerns when they encounter unethical behavior.

The ALTEO Group firmly stands up for the principle that all forms of retaliation or discrimination against ethical whistleblowers are unacceptable, even if as a result of a bona fide report no illegal or inappropriate acts are identified.

Only people properly authorized by ALTEO may communicate information, which shall always be in a transparent and reliable manner, through the media to the general public, observing the requirements of business confidentiality at all times. We respect the fact that the use of social media is part of our employees' private sphere, but we expect them to exercise due care and not to disclose confidential information or statements, personal comments, opinions

5.4.1. Gifts and Invitations

We do not request any benefits from our business partners while acting on behalf of the Group. We ensure that gifts and invitations are accepted only in a reasonable and proportionate manner, as part of our usual business relations. This must always happen on a case-by-case basis and may not influence, or appear to influence, our decisions.

Our employees are required to immediately report all offers of undue advantage to their manager and, at the same time, initiate the termination of the business relationship with the business partner or supplier.

All of our employees are required to observe the following principles in this respect:

- our suppliers are to be selected on the basis of merit, avoiding conflicts of interest, the acceptance of gifts or entertainment aiming to influence our decisions, or any other preference aiming to influence selection;
- low-value promotional items (less than EUR 50) not provided for the purpose of influencing our decisions (e.g. pen, keychain, calendar, folder), other business gifts, business meals and participation in events are acceptable;
- in the case of gifts worth more than EUR 50, the line manager is to be notified; they will decide whether the gift can be kept or is to be donated to a charity, or returned to the person who provided it.

- invitations for business purposes (e.g. professional training, presentations), except for luncheon invitations which are considered as normal, must be notified to and approved in advance by the line manager, who has the right to decide whether or not it is in the Company's business interest to accept the invitation;
- cash or cash equivalents (e.g. vouchers or coupons) may never be accepted.

These principles are considered to be applicable to our own gift and invitation practices as well.

5.4.2 Anti-corruption and Fraud

We specifically reject all forms of corruption and bribery, which are regarded as particularly serious ethical violations if they involve government officials, suppliers and business partners. We apply zero tolerance to all cases involving bribery or corruption.

We conduct our procurement procedures transparently and in accordance with our internal rules.

We assess potential suppliers in a pre-qualification process (also taking financial and legal aspects into consideration).

We do not enter into a business relationship with any supplier that does not meet the Company's requirements.

We expect our business partners to know, accept and comply with the Code of Ethics of the ALTEO Group.

We operate a whistleblowing hotline for reporting corruption and fraud, but reports can also be made via email or over the phone. We also guarantee anonymity for whistleblowers.

We investigate all cases of suspected corruption or fraud, in accordance with our internal rules of procedures.

The ALTEO Group firmly stands up for the principle that all forms of retaliation or discrimination against whistleblowers who report suspected corruption or fraud are unacceptable, even if as a result of a bona fide report no illegal or inappropriate acts are identified.

Our employees are expected:

- to form their governmental and business relations fairly and transparently;
- not to offer or accept cash or other benefits provided for the purpose of gaining an undue advantage or influencing a decision to or from public officials or business partners;
- to avoid transactions that may appear to involve bribery or corruption;

5.4.3. Conflict of Interest

In the event of a conflict of interest, personal or business interests prevent objective decision-making, and there is a risk of making actually or seemingly biased decisions. Any conflict of interest is contrary to ALTEO's values. As a responsible company, we are committed to preventing and eliminating such situations.

During their employment, employees may not engage in any conduct that would jeopardize the legitimate economic interests of ALTEO, except as permitted by law. Employees may not engage in conduct outside working hours which, in particular given the nature of the employee's job and their position within the employer's organization, is directly and actually suitable to jeopardize the employer's reputation, legitimate economic interests, or the purpose of the employment relationship.

All new entrants are required to make a conflict of interest statement. In the event of new contractual relationships, transactions or other forms of value transfer, affected employees must specifically declare that there is no business or personal involvement with respect to the transaction.
